CHAD'S SO RAD

Toronto Argonaut speedster Chad Owens set a new pro-football record for all-purpose yards in a season on Thursday. The Flyin' Hawaiian did it with a 29-yard kickoff return against the Hamilton Tiger-Cats at the Air Canada Centre. Owens came into the game needing 73 combined yards to break Michael "Pinball" Clemons's 1997 mark of 3,840. For the full story, visit metronews.ca. STEVE RUSSELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Can iPads help police solve a murder case?

Cabbagetown death. Crime Stoppers providing 3 tablets so detectives can show video and photos of suspect to the homeless

If homeless people can't access the Internet, homicide detectives are prepared to take the Internet to them.

In an innovative move, Toronto homicide detectives armed with tablets will hit the streets starting Friday in the area where Cabbagetown murder victim Nighisti Semret, 55, was stabbed to death Oct. 23.

Detectives will go to homeless shelters such as Seaton House and show people staying there the images that have been available for days on the police website, YouTube and news sites. This is because, so far, detectives have been hearing the same story: "We don't get the Internet. We don't have access to computers."

Semret was stabbed to death near Ontario and Bleecker streets as she walked home from work as a cleaner at the Delta Chelsea Hotel.

Many of the images of the suspect, showing some of his face, were taken from an overhead security camera. Yet detectives were not getting the leads they thought they should be.

Police are not sure the suspect is a homeless person, but they are keeping that possibility open. Det. Sgt. Gary Giroux believes the man lives in the area and is well known.

This new investigative step was hatched when Giroux happened to be having a conversation with homicide detective Pauline Gray in their office at headquarters.

"Maybe you're going after the wrong demographic," she told Giroux.

He thought about it for a minute.

"I said, 'You're right,'" he said. Giroux then got to work finding out how to get a handful of tablets — possibly iPads or BlackBerrys or another tablet — to take to the street so he could show images to the homeless people who might know the suspect.

All three to agree on the LRT

City hall. Council has its final, final, final vote on LRT vs. subways; Ford calls decision 'terrible'

There will be no more votes about LRTs versus subways, TTC chair Karen Stintz has promised.

Nearly a year after council approved an LRT plan to be built with $8.4 billion in provincial funding, it gave its final blessing Thursday to the framework of a master agreement between Metrolinx, the city and the TTC.

Although the TTC will operate the four lines, they will be owned by Metrolinx. It will consult with the city on any changes to the scope of the projects but, ultimately, it has authority over the lines.

Details must still be negotiated between the city manager, the transit commission's CEO and Metrolinx, but those don't need to be approved by council, said Stintz.

Mayor Rob Ford and his allies tried to delay approval of the agreement Thursday in another bid to stop light rail construction on Eglinton, Sheppard, Finch and the Scarborough RT.

Had council delayed, Stintz said, Toronto might have lost the funding.

"I received a note from the minister's staff saying that if we deferred this item then the province would consider the city not serious about the $8.4-billion investment in transit," she said.

The provincial Treasury Board is expected to approve the funding this month. Had the agreement been deferred, said Stintz, "it's not likely those funds would have been committed."

Ford insisted Torontonians don't like light rail. "This goes back Day 1 to streetcars and subways. You support this contract, you're supporting streetcars, LRTs, whatever you want to call them. That's the bottom line. People do not want these. They want subways. ... You support this, you're supporting more congestion ... massive gridlock. This is terrible. This is the worst thing we could be approving today," he told council.

Several hundred employees are set to lose their jobs when the more than 60-year-old Mr. Christie's Bakery shuts down next year, and it may be condo dwellers who repopulate the site of the storied cookie factory.

Mondelez Canada, who became owners of the factory after the North American split of Kraft Foods Inc. operations earlier this month, made the closure announcement Thursday afternoon to workers. Some 550 employees will be out of jobs when the doors close and that sweet smell dissipates next fall.

"I'm just shocked right now," said Vasyl Tkuchuk as he was leaving the plant Thursday evening. An immigrant from Ukraine, Tkuchuk has worked as a dough mixer at the plant for seven out of his 11 years in Toronto. "I was hoping this was for ... life."

City councillors in Etobicoke expressed concern, saying the company is already looking to rezone the property for residential use, with a massive development concept of 27 condo towers.

Whale trainer may face suit

Marineland. Lawyer's letter threatens to sue former employee $1M for telling news outlet orca was bleeding

Marineland has threatened to sue former senior trainer Christine Santos for "well in excess of one million dollars" for telling Torstar News Service its lone killer whale Kiska was bleeding sporadically.

In a five-page letter to Santos, lawyer Andrew Burns accuses her of having made statements "in complete carelessness, reckless and/or negligent disregard for the truth" in a story published Oct. 18.

The letter demanded a public retraction by Friday at 4:30 p.m., noting it wouldn't satisfy any claim against her but would "mitigate against continuing damage to Marineland."

In a telephone interview Thursday, Santos said there's "no way" she will retract her comments. According to Santos: "They are putting words in my mouth, and I feel like I am being bullied.... It is ridiculous.... I am worried about Kiska."

Santos was fired Oct. 17, the day before the Torstar story. She said in her exit interview she was asked to sign a document that included a statement she'd never seen animal abuse at Marineland. She didn't sign because "it didn't feel right."

The Star published a video of Kiska trailing blood.

Development. Condo boom can't keep up with rental demand

Toronto renters have become unwitting victims of the condo boom.

There may be a record number of new condo projects on the books, but rental demand is so high and projects are taking so long to build, the number of new investor-owned rental units ready for occupancy isn't enough to fill the gap, according to condo market research firm Urbanation.

New condo sales were down 30 per cent over the second quarter as developers held back launching new projects while they took a second look at pricing and unit sizes in the face of softening demand, says Urbanation.

But demand for investor-owned rental condos remains unrelenting as more people look to live and work downtown, and the shortage is unlikely to ease up soon, despite the fact a record 28,000 pre-construction condos were sold last year, says Ben Myers, executive vice president of Urbanation.

It could take about four years before those pre-construction units sold last year translate into real places to live as condo build times get longer, according to Urbanation.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

New units

13,000

While some 16,000 to 18,000 new units were expected to come on stream by the end of this year, just 13,000 are likely to be completed, according to Urbanation.

New bridge shut down the day it opened

An $8 million bridge linking the CityPlace condo community and the downtown core was shut down by the city last week on the same day it opened.

Hours after dignitaries and dancers heralded the bridge at its grand opening on Oct. 26 — and Coun. Adam Vaughan rode across it on his bike — the city ordered it shut down on account of a "number of deficiencies" identified in a last-minute inspection.

York U targets students' mental health

Awareness campaign. Student leaders asked to reach out to depressed and anxious peers

ALEKSANDRA SAGAN
Toronto@metronews.ca

With student mental health under a spotlight after highly publicized suicide cases making teens like Amanda Todd a household name, York University is flipping its intervention strategy by positioning student leaders as their first line of defence in getting people help.

"We want to provide upstream prevention," said Leah State, the university's health educator and co-organizer of the York campaign.

A study administered by York found that 90 per cent of students feel overwhelmed and slightly less than half feel so depressed they find it difficult to function — not unusual statistics for post-secondary students.

The two-week mental-health campaign kicked off on Wednesday with a conference attended by more than 200 York students who were instructed on how to reach out to peers in need.

"We need to invest in these students who are a link in the chain. The students are not there to solve all the problems," she said. "But the students are a key link in that chain."

Matthew Gillespie, 23, attended the conference because it relates to his work as a peer health educator at York. He said students often tell him it is much less intimidating to speak with him than a professional adult.

But student leaders can also feel overwhelmed. "It becomes increasingly difficult to manage your time and prioritize your tasks," he said.

To that end, the conference included a self-care section co-presented by State, who is aware of the added stress of being a student leader and encourages students to take care of themselves first.

Throughout November, conference attendees will use their new skills to help other students talk about mental health.

"Ultimately, the students fuel the campaign," said State, who hopes to hold the conference again next year.

Spotlight on students

A survey of nearly 6,000 Ontario university students revealed:

- 89 per cent feel overwhelmed;
- More than half find university traumatic or difficult to handle;
- More than 36 per cent feel so depressed it's difficult to function;
- About seven per cent consider suicide and more than one per cent act on those thoughts;
- Only about seven per cent seek treatment.

Leah State, left, of York University, and Claire Simpson, a former York student leader, fill goodie bags with stress balls and pamphlets for students. The two are co-organizers of the university's mental-health-awareness campaign.

McGuinty rejects $1.3B cost for scrapping plants

Premier Dalton McGuinty
TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Premier Dalton McGuinty is flatly rejecting a report claiming his government's decision to scrap two gas plants will cost taxpayers at least $1.3 billion.

Well-respected energy industry watchdog Tom Adams says the total cost of cancelling the energy projects in Oakville and Mississauga is more than $1 billion higher than the $230 million the government claims. Speaking in Peterborough on Thursday, McGuinty dismissed Adams' calculations out of hand.

They are based on 56,000 documents the Liberal government released on the gas plants to comply with a Speaker's ruling.

L.A. is new Florida for Canadians

Welcome to the good life. Lavish celebrity lifestyle cheaper than ever in the City of Angels, realtors say

PHOEBE HO
toronto@metronews.ca

The dream of owning an infinity pool in your own backyard and rubbing shoulders with some celebrity neighbours in Los Angeles is not so out of reach for Torontonians now, say a pair of realtors based in L.A.

Calling L.A. the new Florida for Canadians, the Toronto-born real estate partners, Ryan Davis and Ben Bacal, say the deals on offer in California are as low as you could get them. Davis says he's seen a nearly 30 per cent drop in market prices since the 2007 crash.

"With the recession hitting, it's obviously hurt a lot of people. You're getting a lot of properties that are considered trophy properties that've never been on the market," he says.

Florida has traditionally been seen as the go-to spot for Torontonians looking to scoop up a secondary home, but Davis believes that's a thing of the past.

"Florida was just kind of handed down to us by our parents," he says. "Florida to me is just not a great investment. In Florida there's no income tax, so you're paying it on your property tax. So you might be getting a great deal, but (you've) got to look at what they're charging."

Davis believes the glitz and glamour and luxury associated with L.A. will pique the interest of Torontonians. Catering to this niche market with their new Toronto office, the pair says snowbirds can purchase properties ranging anywhere from $100 to $2,300 per square foot.

"Ben and I think there's a good niche market that we can get into and definitely make some people happy coming down to L.A., 'cause it's literally like heaven on earth," says Davis.

But it remains to be seen whether the idea will take off with would-be snowbirds here in the GTA. Interest in Florida properties doesn't seem to be waning, with Canadian buyers representing 31 per cent of Florida's international real estate purchases in 2011, according to the National Association of Realtor's August 2012 report Profile of International Home Buyers in Florida.

TRANSFORMATION AND ACCOUNTABILITY: IT STARTS AT THE TOP

CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

I've been writing about the 10 things we at the TTC need to do on our journey to transform the TTC.

As such, the fourth element of our transformation plan is to hold our people accountable for performance at all levels of the organization. This may seem like an obvious statement, but the TTC has been criticized for a lack of transparency and accountability — I want to change that.

I am very clear on the fact that, more than anything else, customers want and expect their service to be reliable and punctual. So alongside safety, service quality is my number-one priority.

In a later article, I will describe how we are tackling what I call the "basics" that we must get right every day to eliminate delays and drive up performance. To achieve this, though, every person at the TTC needs to be clear on what their role is and what they are expected to deliver day in, day out.

So what are we doing to embed a culture of accountability? I believe it needs to start at the top. As CEO, I accept that the buck stops with me. If we do not improve customer satisfaction with this service, I expect to be held accountable. I have set out to challenge mediocrity and to require much higher standards across the organization. I make a point of being accessible to customers, both in person and if they contact me.

My senior management team now attends regular "challenge meetings" where we dissect performance, evaluate customer feedback and identify immediate areas for improvement. Managers are assigned actions to deliver change within tight timelines and I expect that to happen.

Ultimately, accountability has to permeate down to front-line levels. We are going to strengthen local management teams so that you get quicker responses and better service, where and when you need it.

CRISIS LINK EARNS CUTA LEADERSHIP AWARD

Crisis Link is a unique program available on every subway platform. It's designed to encourage anyone contemplating suicide to use a no-charge direct line on the payphone at the Designated Waiting Area at each platform. The direct-dial button connects callers with a trained counsellor at the Distress Centres of Toronto.

The phone call is free and confidential. Dedicated counsellors are available whenever the subway is open to talk with the caller and provide assistance. Distress Centres staff will contact the TTC in high-risk situations to implement appropriate measures to ensure the individual remains safe.

The TTC and its Crisis Link partners — Distress Centres of Toronto and Bell Canada — were recently presented with the 2012 Corporate Leadership Award for safety and security by the Canadian Urban Transit Association.

Poppy Campaign kickoff

Students from Davisville Public School joined with retired and current TTC employees who served in the Canadian Military for the launch of the annual Royal Canadian Legion Poppy sales on the TTC.

Greeks build a better future

Greece. Cash-free communities take off while economy collapses

KIERON MONKS
@KieronMonks

Has anyone packed a canvas? Celebrating a new life on the mountain. FREE AND REAL

The early morning peace is shattered by the sound of Pan's saw biting through wooden planks as he constructs a new table. "There are no rules," he says, "but we all have jobs. We're not here to screw around."

On the beautiful Greek island of Evia in the foothills of Mount Telaithrion, former programmer Pan, 29, and seven friends who connected through Internet forums have established the country's "first eco-community."

It is an effort to live sustainably and outside mainstream Greek society, which is struggling through the worst economic crisis in memory. While poverty and violence sweep through Athens, the members of the Free and Real team wake up to sunshine each day, ready to work on their own terms.

Economist Yannis Ioannides of Tufts University, Massachusetts, believes a retreat to rural life provides a "safety net" for young people. "At least they can protect themselves against the market by dropping out of it," he told Metro.

Pan is hard at work in the carpentry department. KIERON MONKS/METRO WORLD NEWS

"It's not a solution to the crisis — it's a solution for us," says Dionysis, 30, a chemist who gave up his life in Athens and closed his bank account, vowing to never return.

On Evia, the essentials of life are self-produced, from the organic farm food to the compost toilet, the furniture to the Mongolian-style yurts.

The cross-section of skills makes it possible to live almost completely cash-free, with a professional-standard carpenter, chemist and IT technician among the group and new skills imported through the steady supply of volunteers who pitch up.

"The long-term goal is an eco-network of alternative living projects. We want what we do to be copied and evolved — we don't own this," says Pan. He believes the crisis has sparked interest in such projects — "new ones are appearing all the time" — and travels to eco-festivals to share and develop techniques.

"The software is open-source. The idea is to be locally grounded but globally interconnected.... With this software, one day money will not be needed."

Christos Papaioannou, founder of the TEMs currency

Despite the traditional farming, the group uses cutting edge technology, creating 3D models of construction projects before building them, ahead of switching to a new site on the mountain complete with geodesic domes and an advanced permaculture farm.

There is little political ideology behind it; no one believes in climate change and the philosophy is "do what works for you."

"I don't want to convince anyone," says Dionysis. "Sustainability is different for everyone — it could be a plasma screen TV."

A ferry ride north to the mainland town of Volos reveals a different sustainability model, where residents have established a barter economy using alternative currency "TEMs" instead of Euros.

At the local market, people exchange everything from lemonade to massages.

So far at least three more Greek towns have adopted the model.

Potato movement

With salaries slashed and unemployment rising, co-operatives in Greece have presented a popular solution to feed the hungry.

- One of the most successful has been the 'potato movement' with farmers selling direct to the public without suppliers, supermarkets or handling costs.
- The public benefits from wholesale rates — an advantage that has seen thousands sign up to the scheme.
- In Exarchia, Athens, local activists have taken over an abandoned building to provide free meals to anyone who needs it. Food supplies are donated by locals.

Fix. They rerouted coolant lines, bypassing what they believe to be a leaking radiator

Two spacewalking astronauts worked on a leaky radiator system outside the International Space Station on Thursday, just hours after barely dodging a menacing piece of orbiting junk.

NASA ordered the space station to change position Wednesday evening to avoid a fragment from a communication satellite that was destroyed in a high-speed collision three years ago.

Thrusters on a docked Russian supply ship were fired to move the orbiting lab out of harm's way. But a computer error caused the thrusters to malfunction and the space station did not reach the desired altitude. NASA officials said the space station and its six residents were safe despite their lower-than-intended orbit.

Station commander Sunita Williams and Japanese astronaut Akihiko Hoshide rerouted ammonia coolant lines and bypassed a radiator believed to be leaking. They isolated the suspect radiator to help flight controllers determine in the coming days whether that, indeed, is the source of the ammonia seepage. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jamaicans could seek reparations from Britain

Jamaica has revived a reparations commission to research slavery's social and economic impacts and examine whether the predominantly black island should seek compensation from Britain.

Wanted man threw bombs at pursuers: Police

Highway chase. Suspect also wanted in connection to pipe bombings at his ex-girlfriend's house

Stafford County Sheriff Charles Jett leads a news conference about the search for suspect Laurence Alan Stewart II on Wednesday. Stewart was taken into custody Thursday after a chase during which he allegedly threw pipe bombs at police.
PETER CIHELKA/THE FREE LANCE-STAR/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A man wanted on charges of detonating pipe bombs in Virginia led police on a chase across the Montana plains Thursday during which he threw a half-dozen bombs at his pursuers before he was captured, authorities said.

The chase began after a trooper pulled over Laurence Alan Stewart II for speeding, said Bradley Beyersdorf, a spokesman for the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives.

Stewart, 25, stopped at first, then sped off. Deputies and a helicopter joined in the pursuit. Along the way, Stewart threw approximately six pipe bombs at the officers behind him, Beyersdorf said. There were no injuries. The chase went on for about 64 kilometres before the officers disabled the car. Stewart fled the vehicle with a handgun but was taken into custody.

Stewart is suspected of detonating pipe bombs in the homes of his ex-girlfriend and two investigators handling an earlier indecent exposure case that involves him. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prime minister calls treatment of Ashley Smith 'unacceptable'

'Terrible tragedy.'
Liberal Leader Bob Rae calls out Conservatives on hypocrisy, 'dishonest' comments

Prime Minister Stephen Harper publicly criticized correctional authorities on Thursday for their handling of a disturbed teenager who choked to death in her cell five years ago, prompting opposition accusations of federal government dishonesty.

The issue reached the House of Commons following the screening of a disturbing jailhouse video at an inquest into the death of Ashley Smith this week that shows guards duct-taping her and drugging her against her will.

"The Ashley Smith case is obviously a terrible tragedy," Harper said.

However, information has come to light that shows Corrections Canada's behaviour was "completely unacceptable," he told the House of Commons.

Outside the Commons, Liberal Leader Bob Rae accused the Conservative government of being "dishonest."

"This is a government that wanted to stop the showing of those videos," Rae said.

"This is a government that, every step of the way, attempted to keep Canadians from seeing what went on."

While federal lawyers lost a court battle to keep the videos under wraps, they are still fighting to limit the scope of the inquest, which would block scrutiny of what happened to Smith in prisons outside Ontario.

Harper said he would let "arguments between lawyers" play out without interference.

Smith choked to death as guards looked on in October 2007 at a prison in Kitchener. She had spent the past year of her life in segregation, shunted among prisons in five provinces.

Police report

No proof of wrongdoing

A Quebec police investigation into the drugging of teen inmate Ashley Smith at Joliette prison has found no evidence of wrongdoing.

Footage of the incidents, broadcast publicly for the first time Wednesday, shows staff in gas masks, helmets and hazmat-type suits pinning the shackled but docile woman to a gurney with a plastic riot shield while a nurse injects Smith with a heavy anti-psychotic five times in seven hours.

At one point, guards sit on Smith's legs while a nurse threatens the inmate with "bigger" injections "that will hurt more."

Staff, the report concluded, administered the injections in "the normal manner." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

N.Y.C.: Comfort food soothes

Manhattan. Stranded and in the dark, Sandy-stricken residents take solace in the (not-always-healthy) basics, like chips, chicken-noodle soup and the company of friends

Jamie Sanders went to the grocery store in the aftermath of Superstorm Sandy with good intentions. Cucumbers and apples were on her list.

But her local supermarket hadn't gotten any new supplies — and with the prospect of working in her Upper East Side apartment for several days ahead, she joined the hordes of East Coast residents holed up in their homes who found comfort in the bottom of a crinkly bag, a brightly colored box or a perfect pint-sized cardboard container.

"There was some canned food left and some Oreos," the copywriter and beauty blogger said. "I do like Oreos, but these were an impulse buy. I saw they were Winter Oreos, with red cream and a snowman on top, and I had to try them."

Chips and salsa also went into the cart, although she would have preferred Doritos if any were left, and she sheepishly admitted to making a meal of some boxed macaroni and cheese, too.

Facebook and Twitter were full of similar mini-confessions of calories consumed while people were either left in the dark and trying to eat up what was deep in their freezer before it thawed, or making due with the shelf-stable, packaged foods that were in the grocery store after the meat and produce were gone.

Nancy Yates, a retired United Nations development officer who lives in desolate lower Manhattan, where thousands of people are still without power, went shopping with neighbour Norma Fontane for comfort food at a bodega lit by flashlight and candlelight.

They picked up canned chicken-noodle soup and crackers, chocolate bars, chips and cookies — "to help the depression," Fontane joked.

High tides have flooded Venice, leading Venetians and tourists to don high boots and use wooden walkways to cross St. Mark's Square and other areas under water. Search suspended for missing HMS Bounty captain

Capt. Robin Walbridge has not been found at sea after HMS Bounty capsized amid Hurricane Sandy's horrific conditions on Monday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Coast Guard on Thursday halted its search for the captain of a Canadian-built tall ship that sank off the North Carolina coast during Hurricane Sandy, after more than three days of round-the-clock effort.

For 90 hours, the Coast Guard searched for 63-year-old Robin Walbridge of St. Petersburg, Fla., using ships, helicopters and large planes before suspending its efforts at approximately 6:42 p.m., said Lt. Michael Patterson.

Suspending a search-and-rescue case is one of the hardest decisions we have to make, said Capt. Doug Cameron, chief of incident response for the Coast Guard 5th District.

HMS Bounty was originally built in built at Smith and Ruhland Shipyard in Lunenburg, N.S., for the 1962 film Mutiny on the Bounty starring Marlon Brando, and it was featured in several other films over the years, including one of the Pirates of the Caribbean movies.

Walbridge was captain of the three-masted tall ship, which sank before dawn Monday in hurricane-churned waters about 90 miles off Cape Hatteras. The crew abandoned ship in two life rafts, and the Coast Guard rescued 14 crew members. Claudene Christian, 42, was among those rescued, but she died.

Cameron said the rescuers' thoughts and prayers were with the Walbridge and Christian families.

The search persisted for days despite rough seas in hopes the healthy, expert seaman could stay alive in his survival suit in the relatively warm waters near the site of the shipwreck, the Coast Guard said. The water temperature was about 26 C on Thursday, but seas rocked waves of more than a metre and the winds were 48 kilometres an hour.

The ship's connection to its namesake went back to the original Bounty, whose crew notoriously took over the ship from its commander, Lt. William Bligh, in April 1789. The mutiny was led by Fletcher Christian, and Claudene Christian said she was his great-great-great-great-great granddaughter.

Suspicions abound that Putin may be ill

Russia. He avoids his Kremlin office, has cancelled foreign trips, may have been injured in recent publicity stunt with cranes

What ails Vladimir Putin?

The Russian leader whose image of physical vigour is key to his success has cancelled several foreign trips in recent weeks, postponed his annual live televised question-and-answer session with average Russians, and has rarely left his suburban residence outside Moscow.

A respected Russian newspaper claimed Thursday that a publicity stunt during which Putin tried to lead cranes on their migratory paths in a motorized hang-glider aggravated an old injury.

Putin's office denies it was the flight with cranes, insists it is just a pulled muscle and spins the situation, saying that athletes often get banged up. Besides, it says, Putin's avoiding the Kremlin office so he doesn't tie up Moscow traffic with his motorcade — something that hasn't seemed to trouble him during his previous 12 years in power. Putin celebrated his 60th birthday in early October. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Man's guilty plea in weapons deals will see him return to U.K.

Homeward bound.
British citizen extradited to the U.S. will serve most of his 33-month sentence in the U.K.

A British man accused of trying to buy missile parts from undercover American agents and resell them to Iran pleaded guilty Thursday in a deal that would carry nearly three years in prison but could allow him to serve much of that time in his native United Kingdom.

Christopher Tappin, 66, faced charges of conspiracy to illegally export defence articles, aiding and abetting the illegal export of defence articles and conspiracy to conduct illegal financial transactions.

He pleaded guilty to the second count of the indictment Thursday in a hearing in El Paso, Texas. The deal calls for 33 months in prison, but as part of the agreement, prosecutors have agreed not to oppose his request to be transferred back to his home country. It also carries a fine of $11,357, the amount of money he would have profited from missile parts deal for which he was indicted.

U.S. District Judge David Briones will decide Tappin's sentence Jan. 9.

The retired British businessman has been living in an upscale Houston neighbourhood since his release on a $1-million bond in April.

Tappin's last half year in the U.S. has been "as pleasant as time away from his family can be," his lawyer Dan Cogdell said after the hearing. "He plays golf every day, he's made new friends but he is away from his family."

Tappin's wife, Elaine, said in a statement Thursday that she hoped her husband's plea deal would mark the "beginning of the end" of her family's ordeal. She added her "overwhelming feeling remains one of anxiety and sadness ... however at last I dare hope that Chris will be back on home soil next year."

The federal indictment filed in 2007 said a co-operating defendant provided computer files showing Tappin intended to send surface-to-air-missile batteries to a Tehran-based company and that he and the co-operating defendant had illegally sold U.S. technology to Iran in the past.

In 2006, Robert Gibson, an associate of Tappin, contacted an undercover company in order to procure batteries for Hawk Surface-To-Air Defence Missiles. The negotiations led to Gibson's arrest by Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents.

The U.S. government alleged Tappin provided undercover agents with false documents to deceive authorities and circumvent the requirement for the batteries to be licensed by the government before being exported.

Tappin's trials

- Bid to stay in the U.K. Tappin fought extradition to the United States for two years until being denied a petition to take the case to Britain's Supreme Court. After he was brought to Texas, Tappin was held at the Otero County Jail for about two months, where he initially was put in solitary confinement at his request.

Transit arteries bring life back to New York City

Problems remain.
Concerns rise for safety of elderly and the poor

New York City moved closer to resuming its frenetic pace by getting back its vital subways Thursday, three days after the superstorm. But neighbouring New Jersey was stunned by coastal devastation and the news of thousands of people in one city still stranded by increasingly fetid flood waters.

In New York, people streamed into the city as service began to resume on commuter trains and subways. Amtrak's Northeast Corridor — the busiest train line in the country — was to take commuters along the heavily-populated East Coast again, starting Friday.

But hundreds of people lined up for buses, traffic jammed for kilometres and long gas lines formed. The latest deaths reported included two young boys who disappeared Monday night when waves of water crashed into an SUV.

Hundreds of thousands in New York City alone were still without power, especially in downtown Manhattan. Concerns rose over the elderly and poor, who faced pitch-black hallways and dwindling food.

"Our problem is making sure they know that food is available," New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg said, as officials expressed concern about people hauling water from fire hydrants up dark flights of stairs. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On the surface

"Manhattan is getting back to normal — at least, the parts most people notice."

Alex Koppelman wrote on The New Yorker website Thursday.

Bloomberg can see it now. Obama is best man to fight climate change, mayor says

New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg on Thursday backed President Barack Obama over Republican Mitt Romney, saying the incumbent Democrat will bring leadership that is critically needed to fight climate change after the East Coast devastation wrought by Superstorm Sandy.

The endorsement from the politically independent and popular third-term mayor was a major boost for Obama, who is spending the campaign's final days trying to win over independent voters whose voices will be critical in determining who wins Tuesday's election. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gun registry. Federal government admits that data has been destroyed

The federal government says millions of records of registered long guns have all been destroyed, with the exception of court-protected data from Quebec. A spokeswoman for Public Safety Minister Vic Toews confirmed the registry's destruction "as of last night" after gun enthusiasts began spreading the word.

No formal news release appears to have been issued by a Conservative government that has made repeal and destruction of the long-gun registry one of its bedrock promises.

"Our Conservative government is proud to say that as of last night, all contents of the long-gun registry have been destroyed, except those related to Quebec," Toews' director of communications Julie Carmichael said in an email Thursday.

"Make no mistake, the tax-and-spend NDP will not hesitate to bring back the long gun registry. Now that these data have been deleted, they can never be recovered — even by Thomas Mulcair,"' wrote the government spokeswoman.

While there was no formal news release from Public Safety, groups such as the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters were out issuing public praise for the move after Toews apparently told representatives at a federal-provincial meeting Thursday in Regina.

"We are delighted that the Harper government has followed through on its promise in such a timely fashion," Greg Farrant of the Ontario association said in a release.

Guns by the numbers

A study by the Canadian Press suggests taxpayers, by repealing the registry, will only save a small fraction of millions spent annually on gun licensing.

- Last year there were almost eight million firearms logged in the registry.
- RCMP data shows that as of last July, there are still more than 564,000 restricted firearms and more than 191,000 prohibited weapons in the federal gun registry.

Trafficking ring. Drug raid results in 103 arrests

One thousand police officers conducted raids in various Canadian cities against an alleged consortium of organized crime that had tentacles stretching from Mexico to Montreal.

Police said 103 people were arrested Thursday including two of the alleged ring leaders: one tied to the Hells Angels in British Columbia and another linked to Montreal's infamous Irish West End Gang.

They said the organization hatched its plan in British Columbia and moved east. Police said the organization, which had been under investigation for about six months, managed to rake in an estimated $50 million in that time.

"The group did not hesitate to use violence to take control and expand their territories," Quebec provincial police Insp. Michel Forget said.

Quebec provincial police said the operation, dubbed Operation Loquace was, in terms of size and manpower, almost as big as two huge strikes against criminal biker gangs in the province in 2001 and 2009.

Warrants were issued for 128 people. As of late Thursday, two dozen suspects remained missing. Police said they seized $255,000 in cash as well as cannabis, cocaine and other drugs. They also seized 13 vehicles and five homes worth about $1.5 million. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trudeau more loved by non-French tweeters

Like father, like son.
MediaMiser compared nearly 15,000 English and French-language comments on Twitter about the Liberal MP

Justin Trudeau's one-month-old bid for the Liberal leadership has sparked a flurry of political conversation on Twitter — but one that also reveals an English-French divide in his appeal.

In an analysis of almost 15,000 tweets about Trudeau over the past month, the MediaMiser firm found that English-language Twitter users tended to be more positive than negative when they weighed in with opinions about the 40-year-old leadership candidate.

French-language Twitter users, on the other hand, were more inclined to be negative. The vast majority of Twitter posts, in either language, were neutral, MediaMiser found in a data analysis. But in the 14 per cent of English-language posts that did show an opinion, 12 per cent were positive and only two per cent were negative. In French, 11 per cent of the tweets tilted toward opinion — 7 per cent negative, 4 per cent positive. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

While the majority of tweets are neutral, Liberal-leader candidate Justin Trudeau seems to be better-liked by English tweeters. CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

The Great Divide

The divide becomes even sharper when looking at tweets about Trudeau since Oct. 25, when he spoke out against the Parti Québécois government plans to toughen up language laws in Quebec. Since then, English-language Twitter posts have been about 30 per cent positive and three per cent negative, while French-language posts were 26 per cent negative and eight per cent positive.

- Justin Trudeau, MP for the Montreal riding of Papineau, is the son of former prime minister Pierre Trudeau, who stirred up strong feelings among Quebecers with his constitutional views and fights for federalism.
- Liberals feel their hope of revival hinges on gaining in Quebec.

Cancer study. Stem cells reverse chemo-induced infertility in monkeys

Scientists have long been searching for a way to preserve fertility in young boys left unable to father a child later in life after being treated for childhood cancer. That's because chemotherapy and radiation can destroy the stem cells in the testes that give rise to sperm with the onset of puberty.

Now researchers, using monkeys, have shown that samples of testicular tissue that have been frozen can be thawed and re-implanted following chemotherapy and begin producing sperm.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

The downside

- Before attempting the procedure in humans, researchers must deal with the risk they could re-seed cancer cells into a testicle along with the stem-cell transplant.
- The procedure would not be an option for post-pubescent teens or men who did not store a semen sample prior to chemotherapy or radiation treatment.

Study uncovers hundreds of smoking-friendly apps

Smart Health Project.

Pro-smoking programs discovered while developing apps for consumer health care and research

Public-health scientists trying to create smartphone applications to help smokers quit have stumbled on more than 100 apps they believe are a new route to hooking addicts.

The study found a wide-open world of "pro-smoking content including explicit cigarette-brand images are reaching millions of users, including teenagers and children." The 107 apps identified as pro-smoking included virtual cigarettes smoked by blowing on the mobile device's microphone, tobacco-store finders, games and brand explanations.

Researchers stopped short of tracing the home countries of the app developers, which governments may need to stop them. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Scientists working on applications to help smokers quit found 107 apps they believe are a new method of hooking addicts. KAREN BLEIER/AFP/GETTY IMAGES FILE

An app for that

- One free Google Play app for Android, Smoke Virtual Cigarette, has been downloaded more than one million times. Its developer, MJMS Solutions, runs a Swahili-language website.
- Other apps were designed as lit cigarettes that could be used as battery gauges, screen savers and virtual ashtrays. One allowed users to collect points for buying Marlboro cigarettes.
- Scientists pointed out that the pro-smoking apps "appear to be violating Article 13 of the World Health Organization Framework, which bans advertising and promotion of tobacco products in all media, including the Internet." That would also apply to countries that ban tobacco advertising; Canada is among them.

Put money in your pocket by shopping your insurance rate.

Insurance is a very competitive industry, and the more you shop around, the more likely you are to find a better deal. Shopping around is far and away the best chance to save money on car insurance, as the rates charged by different insurance companies to insure the same driver, with the same car, for the exact same coverage, can vary by hundreds and even thousands of dollars. Attack ad ties Obama to Chavez, Castro's niece

U.S. presidential race.
Florida ads seen as attempt to woo Cuban Americans

A new Mitt Romney campaign ad running in Florida claims Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez and Fidel Castro's niece would support President Barack Obama.

The ad, sponsored by the Republicans, shows a clip of Chavez saying that if he were American, "I'd vote for Obama" — something Chavez did say in September, when he also called Obama "a good guy."

Obama's campaign on Thursday said the ad gives the Venezuelan leader more attention than he merits.

Venezuela has had tense relations with the U.S. government for years, even though the U.S. is a top buyer of its oil.

Mariela Castro, daughter of Cuban President Raul Castro and director of the Cuban National Centre for Sex Education, has praised Barack Obama's stance on same-sex marriage. GETTY IMAGES FILE

"Mitt Romney continues to play Hugo Chavez's game, giving Chavez the attention he thrives on and that he doesn't deserve," said Dan Restrepo, a national security adviser to the Obama campaign. "Keeping America safe and advancing U.S. interests require the kind of leadership President Obama has provided, not Romney's bluster."

The ad, first reported by The Miami Herald, was airing on three Spanish-language TV stations in heavily Hispanic Miami.

It contains a similar clip featuring Castro's niece, Mariela, who has no official link to the Cuban government. She's a noted advocate of gay rights and has praised Obama's stance in support of same-sex marriage.

The ad is an effort to court Cuban Americans in Miami, many of whom have supported Republican candidates in past elections. Romney campaigned Wednesday in Florida. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Trick-or-trouble. U.K. man hands out cocaine to kids instead of candy

British police say a man has been charged with a drug offence after children were given bags of cocaine instead of candy during Halloween trick-or-treating.

Greater Manchester Police says officers were called after children in the town of Royton in northwest England reported finding sachets of white powder in their Halloween bags. Tests confirmed that the substance was cocaine.

Police say 23-year-old Donald Junior Green was charged Thursday with possession of drugs. A woman was arrested but released without being charged.

Police say they believe it was an isolated incident and that it appeared that the man's drugs were given to the children accidentally. None of the children consumed the cocaine.

The walking dead. Passed-out 'zombie' gets DUI charge

Police were called to what looked like a woman shot dead in her car, but instead found a Halloween reveller they described as drunk and passed out in a bloody-looking zombie costume.

The news site al.com reports that a passerby called police in Birmingham, Ala., on Thursday morning after seeing the woman slumped over her steering wheel at a traffic light.

Police say officers roused the woman and removed her from the vehicle. Authorities say she was handcuffed and taken to the city jail on a charge of driving under the influence.

A photo of the woman by al.com showed fake blood covering much of her torso as she was apprehended. Details on her identity weren't immediately available.

Madrid. Three women killed and two critically injured after being crushed by concert-goers fleeing an explosion set off by a firework

A stampede in an arena where thousands of people were attending a Halloween dance party killed three women and critically injured two others early Thursday, officials said.

It happened just after 4 a.m. in a passageway within the venue leading to the central concert area at Madrid Arena, where the disco-style party with American DJ Steve Aoki was under way.

Someone set off a flare or a firework, causing the stampede that trampled the five young women, Deputy Mayor Miguel Angel Villanueva said.

One witness said the stampede left partygoers piled atop one another as high as her shoulders.

"I saw a mass of people screaming, 'Help, get me out of here,' with security guards tugging at them," Ana Gomez told state broadcaster TVE. "I remember seeing the face of one young man, and his expression was that of sheer terror."

Thousands of people were attending the party when the stampede occurred, leaving the victims with trauma injuries or breathing and heart failure, emergency-services spokesman Fernando Prado said.

Villanueva said the venue's maximum capacity of 10,600 people had not been exceeded and that authorities decided not to evacuate the arena when the accident occurred. Most partygoers were not aware of the stampede because it was confined to the passage, he said.

Halloween has recently become a popular festivity in Spain, coinciding with the traditional feast of All Saints.

One person critical, three others injured after USC shooting

Two men have been arrested for the Halloween shootings of four people on the University of Southern California campus.

USC Department of Public Safety Capt. David Carlisle says an argument between two men not tied to the school led to one of them pulling out a gun and shooting another person shortly before midnight.

About 100 people had gathered for a party hosted by a student organization.

One man was shot several times and critically wounded. Three bystanders had non-life-threatening injuries.

The Los Angeles Times reports USC sent a text alert telling students to stay inside. Hours later, another text said the threat was over and classes would go on as scheduled.

None involved were USC students.

Carlisle says the suspects were arrested about 10 minutes after the shooting.

Shark attack.
California man suffered lacerations but managed to beat his way to freedom

A California surfer who survived a shark attack says he punched the beast in the head until it finally released him.

Scott Stephens says the great white pulled him underwater Tuesday near the entrance to Humboldt Bay, about 250 miles north of San Francisco.

The animal let him go only after receiving the blows to its head.

Doctors say Stephens suffered at least seven deep lacerations, but none of his vital organs were damaged.

He required more than 100 staples to seal multiple gashes and was in fair condition Wednesday.

The 25-year-old thanked the doctors who operated on him and strangers who came to his aid. He says he plans to surf again. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brazilian police find drug tunnel to university

Police say they found a 15-metre tunnel used by drug traffickers to deliver cocaine to university students in Brazil's largest city.

Police Col. Cesar Augusto Morelli said the tunnel connected the ringleader's home to a cocaine lab and then to a point close to a wall separating the Sao Remo slum from the University of Sao Paulo campus.

He says traffickers would emerge from the tunnel and sell drugs through a hole in the wall.

9 – UNDERBODY SHIELD vw.ca

This underbody shield not only protects our vehicles from the road, but also connects them to it. That's because a flat underbody helps air to flow faster beneath the car than above it, creating a pressure differential that sucks the vehicle to the road. Yet another little thing that makes a Volkswagen a Volkswagen.

Making a list, checking it twice: X-mas shoppers want best deals

Online research. Study finds 60% of holiday buyers will look up competing prices on the web

People Christmas shop in the Eaton Centre in this Dec. 23, 2009, file photo. This year, more holiday buyers will check prices online before they head out to the mall. THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

Canadians will spend one to two per cent more this holiday season, but an increasing number will check for the best prices online before they head to the mall, a new study suggests.

"We think it's a highly price competitive Christmas," said Brent Houlden, Canadian retail practice leader at Deloitte, which released its 2012 holiday outlook survey Thursday.

Due to online price checking before going to the mall, shoppers are that much more demanding that "we get the real value up front," Houlden said from Toronto.

The study said 60 per cent of those surveyed will use the Internet during their holiday shopping for prices and research, up from 49 per cent in 2011.

Pricing loomed large in the holiday trends survey with 64 per cent of participants saying they will choose where they shop based on a store's low prices.

The survey didn't ask participants how much they would spend. Instead, it asked how many gifts they planned to buy.

Those surveyed said they would buy between one and 10 gifts with the top choices being gift cards followed by clothing and toys. Tech gifts ranked sixth on this year's wish list after having been at the top of the list in previous years.

Houlden said gift buying will be spread among online offers, U.S. retailers operating in Canada and cross-border shopping, helping keep prices competitive.

"Canadians are always trying to find the best price in Canada and then they go, 'Oh, what would it be in the States?' So we're doing a double price check all of the time."

The online poll was conducted between Sept. 21-27 with 2,349 Canadians.

Mobile shopping

- The survey found that just 40 per cent of respondents planned to use their smartphone or tablet to buy online, but 70 per cent would use these devices for product research.
- Brent Houlden, Canadian retail practice leader at Deloitte, said shoppers are now checking prices in stores with their smartphones, making it "tough on the sales associate" to stay current.

China. Refusing Nexen deal could cost Canada

Canada can expect a chilly reception and damaged relations with Beijing if the Harper government dents China's pride by refusing a $15.1-billion bid for a piece of this country's oilpatch, observers say.

And other foreign investors will have occasion to pause if state-owned China National Offshore Oil Corp. is blocked in the friendly takeover of Calgary-based Nexen, they add.

Those investors would question Ottawa's commitment to open markets and the government would take political heat — from both supporters and opponents of the decision — for once again not having a clear strategy for dealing with foreign takeovers.

Stock values among Canadian resource firms would almost certainly fall, some hard.

On purely technical terms, the friendly deal announced July 23 is a no-brainer for the Nexen shareholders — they would receive a 61 per cent premium on shares.

But under the Investment Canada Act, deals involving WTO member countries valued at more than $330 million must be a "net benefit" to Canada. Just what constitutes a "net benefit" exactly is unclear, but Prime Minister Stephen Harper has said clarifications are coming soon.

"There's no good putting lipstick on a pig," says John Manley, a former Liberal industry minister who now heads the country's most influential business lobby group, the Canadian Council of Chief Executives.

Rail-plant strike

Bombardier still aims to deliver subways on time

Bombardier is taking steps to avoid delivery delays for a series of railway projects — including subway cars for Toronto and Montreal — after workers at its plant in La Pocatiere, Que., went on strike Thursday.

A spokesman declined to specify how the company will avoid delays, but said all measures will be legal. The plant is building the sidewalls and roofs for an order from Toronto for 420 subway cars. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Retail figures

Storm spending may impact U.S. holiday sales

Americans spent briskly in October before Superstorm Sandy hit the northeast U.S. at the tail-end of the month. But analysts fear that many people who bought generators and other emergency and cleanup supplies will be less inclined to spend over the holidays.

Twenty-one retailers from club operator Costco to department store Macy's reported that October sales through last Saturday were up five per cent compared with the year-ago period.

LET'S KEEP AIR CANADA OUT OF THIS ONE, HUH?

THE LIST
Mike Benhaim
metronews.ca

1 G-strings. Among businesses being reimbursed for losses incurred during 2010's G20 summit in Toronto is the Zanzibar strip club. Not only did the bar suffer damages from rioters, but they also experienced an unprecedented dip in revenue from the absence of politicos.

2 Mile-high madness. Maygan Sensenberger wanted to be famous. Her journey began last August at age 22, when she married then-68-year-old Liberal Senator Rod Zimmer. One year later, almost to the day, during a flight to Saskatoon, a lovers' spat landed her in jail. She was charged with endangering the safety of an aircraft, uttering threats and causing a disturbance. Sensenberger says she still "plans to be big," but does not want to be known as the "crazy Air Canada lady." That's fair. Let's keep Air Canada out of this.

3 Papa Can You Hear Me? Barbra Streisand began her Canadian tour last week to sold-out crowds. The show apparently begins with a video montage of Babs' childhood and early career to the tune of You'll Never Know, as Streisand emerges to a welcoming public. If you listen closely, you can hear at least one person saying, "$1,000 a ticket, and I'm watching her home movies!"

4 Space invaders. Austrian daredevil, Felix Baumgartner, stated in an interview that sending machines to Mars is pointless. He says our tax dollars could be spent more wisely, and that people should decide, "Are you willing to spend all this money to go to Mars?" Well, maybe not to go, but if I could send Bristol Palin and the cast of Jersey Shore, count me in.

5 Who cares? Kim Kardashian wore a $2,000 waist-length blond wig with her sexy mermaid costume for a Halloween party last week, and is now asking her more than 16 million Twitter followers if she should dye it for real. Perhaps the real question is why she even has 16 million followers? I'm thinking her time would be better spent trying to cultivate a talent of any kind.

6 Adult ed. Twenty-six-year-old Canadian rapper, Drake, completed his high school diploma and dedicated it to his mom in a heartfelt speech. "I'll sleep a little better tonight knowing that I found a way to follow through." Congratulations buddy. Next stop: Harvard.

7 Ball talk. NBA basketball is back with a new venue in Brooklyn, and improved Celtic and Laker teams to challenge 2012 juggernauts Miami and OKC. A great time for hockey fans to either become basketball fans, or start talking to their wives.

8 Car-tunes. This week in 1969, the No. 1 song on the U.K. singles chart was Sugar, Sugar by The Archies. The song was co-written and co-sung by Canada's own Andy Kim. Sorry to disappoint those of you who thought it was actually sung by Archie, but he and Jughead were hungover.

9 Hey soul sista. A homegrown R&B diva is emerging from our midst. Torontonians will see Andria Simone perform tracks from her debut CD, Nothing Comes Easy, at the Drake next week. But she'll be making the national rounds soon enough. You heard it here first.

It's a Hip replacement

FERNANDO MONTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS/HANDOUT

ER doc is Ahead by a Century

Montalvo is a staff emergency doctor in Kingston, Ont., and in whatever free time he can carve out, he's a filmmaker, directing music videos for Sarah Harmer, Stripper's Union and, most recently, The Tragically Hip. THE CANADIAN PRESS

"I sometimes think that filming can be as exhausting and challenging as if you're working a busy string of shifts ... But as a friend of mine said one time: 'The difference is no one is clapping after you sew up their finger.'"

Max Montalvo
Emergency room doctor, filmmaker

Their music at work

Working two jobs is pretty Hip

Montalvo has been practising emergency medicine for a decade, while his filmmaking career took off more recently when he directed 2010's El Payo, a documentary about northern Ontario flamenco guitarist David Phillips, who died in 2002.

Montalvo met Tragically Hip guitarist Rob Baker through mutual friends and gradually developed a relationship with the rest of the band.

Still, it was a special joy for Montalvo to watch and shoot the recording sessions for the band's recently released disc, Now For Plan A.

Determined not to use the resulting footage for a typical promotional clip, Montalvo instead cut an arty, wry, black-and-white video that runs more than 11 minutes, includes almost no English and features a performance by Canadian metal outfit Kooznetz superimposed over images of the Hip recording.

The Hip loved the video and commissioned Montalvo to helm clips for two more songs. For the driving At Transformation, Montalvo created an oblique visual collage, while he took a different approach for Lookahead, released this week. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Denzel Washington yet again takes on the role of a hero with a dark side in Flight. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Flight crashes in its tale about addiction

Uneven course. Ned Ehrbar fills in for Mark Breslin and reviews Flight, a film that struggles to set a consistent tone

Richard: Ned, is there another A-list leading man who explores the dark sides of their characters as often as Washington? Will Smith and Tom Cruise will occasionally let the heroic side of their on-screen personas take a back seat, but Washington revels in mucking around in the mud. From Training Day to American Gangster and Safe House, he crafts complex characters you wouldn't want to sit next to on the bus. Do you think this is Oscar worthy?

Ned: As far as A-listers in love with the dark side, it's pretty much Washington and Leo DiCaprio. And Washington gets plenty murky here — so much so that it made me wonder if we'd be rooting for this character at all if it were played by someone else. Let's face it, the booze- and coke-addled pilot he plays here only has one attractive characteristic: Looking and sounding like Denzel Washington. As for Oscar-worthy, I'm not so sure.

RC: I thought he managed to subtly capture the ego and hubris that allows his hotshot character to present a sober face to the public, even though the film's visual language is frequently not as refined. A close-up of Washington's hand grasping a mini bottle of vodka and the accompanying swoosh sound looks like something that should be in a commercial.

NE: The tone of the film in general seemed to be all over the place. Who knows, maybe the whole film was supposed to seem drunk? In any event, it didn't work for me. His hitting rock bottom is played for laughs, and Kelly Riley — as the recovering heroin addict he shacks up with for some reason — seems to be literally in a different movie for the first 30 minutes or so. And as movies about alcoholism go, it doesn't do Flight any favours to come out soon after the more nuanced Smashed.

RC: I think Smashed is a much more touching story about addiction. As much as I enjoyed Washington, I wish the movie had been more concise. It flits around a half-dozen themes before the end.

NE: The movie left me cold. It starts great — with thrilling take-off and crash-landing sequences, but it's flat and uneven from then on.

Synopsis

Denzel Washington plays a troubled airline pilot who safely lands a malfunctioning plane, saving 96 of the 102 passengers and crew. Hailed as a hero at first, soon his unsavoury personal habits bring him under suspicion. Was the malfunction that brought the plane down of a mechanical or personal nature?

MGM's financial hardships were a blessing in disguise for Skyfall director

More time with Bond. While his project was in hiatus, Sam Mendes spent nine months fine tuning the script

Judi Dench chats with Sam Mendes on the set of Skyfall. FRANCOIS DUHAMEL/MGM

Director Sam Mendes has been working on Skyfall, the 23rd James Bond film, for quite some time — thanks in large part to parent studio MGM's financial woes that halted pre-production for nearly a year. So what did the Oscar-winning director learn during his extended tenure with the franchise?

MGM's bankruptcy issues were a blessing in disguise.

"We had a stroke of luck on this movie, ultimately, which was at the time one of the most frustrating things, which was the temporary bankruptcy of MGM, which for me was a bit of a nightmare because I'd really prepped the movie and was ready to go into full-scale pre-production, and we had to halt everything, if you remember, for something like nine months," Mendes explains. "But in that time, we worked on the script. I knew every scene intimately, and we kept working. We had two weeks of rehearsals, which is a relatively new thing for the Bond franchise. We had a read-through of the script, and (series producer) Barbara (Broccoli) said to me, 'It's the first read-through we've ever had of a Bond movie!'"

Referencing classic Bond has to be handled carefully.

"I felt about the homage elements that you have to earn them. I think if you put them in at the wrong time, they're going to strike a false note," he says. "It's also true that in making a Bond movie, you have to rediscover your 13-year-old self."

Before Daniel Craig, the franchise had made a few wrong turns.

"The thing about Bond for me, watching the old movies, is that there was a point around Moonraker where it lost some of its thriller roots and went into a sort of action-adventure, almost travelogue type of feeling," Mendes admits. "Bond the character became kind of the Sellotape that tied it all together. It was like, 'How can we get Bond from Rio to Venice and from Venice to a cable car? Because these are the big sequences that we have to make work.' He almost from that moment on had no journey at all. I'm being unfair to some of the movies in between, but I felt like in Casino Royale, Bond was back at the centre of the movie," Mendes says. METRO WORLD NEWS

Animated

Wreck-It Ralph

Director. Rich Moore

Stars. John C. Reilly, Sarah Silverman

Wreck-It Ralph, the bad guy of Fix-It Felix Jr. — the most popular game in the arcade — is suffering a midlife crisis. After 30 years of wrecking the video apartment building only to watch Felix (Jack McBrayer) take credit for fixing it, Ralph (Reilly) is in an existential funk. After an inspiring Bad Guys Anonymous meeting, Ralph quits Wreck-It Ralph for Hero's Duty in search of cred. It's a can–do story wrapped in a retro gallery of video games and characters. But without breathing room, it drags like a sugar downer in the third act.

The Man With The Iron Fists

Director. RZA

Stars. Russell Crowe, Lucy Liu

Coming from a die-hard kung fu fan and an ex-rapper, you really would expect nothing less from The Man with the Iron Fists, the directorial debut of the Wu-Tang Clans' RZA. The film is a great example of a contemporary martial arts movie. The movie follows the story of a lonely blacksmith (RZA) who unites with warriors and an assassin to destroy a group of traitors on a path of destruction. This film certainly isn't perfect, but it's fun, over-the-top and visually pleasing.

METRO

Drama

Midnight's Children

Director. Deepa Mehta

Stars. Satya Bhabha, Shahana Goswami, Rajat Kapoor

Deepa Mehta, one of Canada and India's premiere filmmakers, melds history and mysticism in her adaptation of Salman Rushdie's Booker Prize-winning novel, set against the 1947 partition of India. Two boys born at the exact moment of India's independence from the British Empire are switched by a nurse — a poor boy put in a rich family and the rich with an itinerant musician. There are numerous insights into India, its culture and incredibly rich modern history.

Manborg

Director. Steven Kostanski

Stars. Matthew Kennedy, Adam Brooks

To love Steven Kostanski's Manborg is to first understand the manifesto of its creative team, the collective known as Astron-6. This is an attempt by the wiseacre Canadian whiz kids to produce the kind of grotty, campy, over-the-top genre romps that haunted video shelves in the '80s. And it all works. Telling the story of the evil bloodsucking Draculon and his adversary, a cyborg named Manborg in the cheap looking retro-future, Kostanski fills his frames with dirty humour, nickel-and-dime gore and bargain basement FX.

Documentary

How To Survive A Plague

Director. David France

Stars. Peter Staley, Larry Kramer

The lack of government response to the AIDS crisis in the '80s remains an embarrassing reminder of the ignorance that surrounded the disease. How to Survive a Plague tells the story from the perspective of ACT UP, a grassroots group who slugged it out with everyone from New York City hospitals over admitting infected patients to the FDA over access to drugs. Assembled mostly from video footage shot at meetings and protests and news clips, the film paints a vivid picture of the time.

IAN GORMELY

Documentary

Crossfire Hurricane

Director. Brett Morgen

Stars. The Rolling Stones

Given the limitations he endured — The Rolling Stones would conduct audio interviews only, no cameras aloud — director Brett Morgen's attempt to construct a career spanning doc of the 50-year-old rock institution is pretty good. Crossfire Hurricane assembles reels and reels of archival footage to tell the tale, smartly focusing on the pre-Ron Wood era of the band. Entire films can be made about single nights in the career of the world's greatest rock and roll band and Crossfire Hurricane simply props up the band's established narrative.

Luis Prieto pushes remake of Danish thriller in a whole new direction

Comedy to crime. Filmmaker asked cast and crew not to watch original and to reference films like GoodFellas instead

STEVE GOW
scene@metronews.ca

Pusher opens in theatres next Friday. HANDOUT

When Luis Prieto was approached to remake the popular Danish crime-thriller Pusher, the humble filmmaker had reservations. After all, the original movie spun off two sequels and still keeps a dedicated fan following.

"At first I said no," admitted Prieto, a surprise choice since his previous films include a hit Italian romantic comedy. "Then (the producers) convinced me saying no one wants to make a remake, we just want to make a film."

Prieto agreed, but as a fan of the tense thriller, he purposely strayed from revisiting the 1996 original from Nicolas Winding Refn — director of Drive — about a drug trafficker struggling to survive after a bad deal leaves him in the lurch for thousands.

"Basically, I asked everyone on the crew not to watch Nicolas's Pusher. I asked the actors not to watch it, I didn't watch it," said Prieto. "I told everyone if you're looking for reference, look at GoodFellas, look at whatever you want, but do not look at Pusher because we're doing something new."

Part of that new approach included hiring international supermodel Agyness Deyn to co-star in the film. As the cagey girlfriend of the desperate dealer, Deyn was thrilled to have such a weighty role to kick-off her acting career.

"I suppose I left Never Neverland," admits Deyn about moving from the Peter Pan-world of modeling into movies. "With any job, you want to do different things and be creative in different ways and as soon as I started acting, it was as if I got an injection to my heart, as in this is what I want to do."

"I was expecting something else when told (she was) a model," added Prieto, pleasantly surprised. "Everyone told me they were worried because I was bringing a model to the set and I said, 'Relax, it's going to be fine' and she did a great job."

Escapism

- Prieto on why we love crime dramas. "We watch movies to feel things we don't feel everyday," he says. "That's one of the interesting things about the film — (the audience experiences) what this guy experiences knowing it could've been you."

Ne-Yo's new album drops Nov. 6.
GARY HE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ne-Yo makes surprise appearance

Cross-pollination. R&B star joins forces with country star Tim McGraw in Nashville to perform new collaboration off latest release

Ne-Yo feels right at home in Music City.

The silky-voiced R&B star joined Tim McGraw for a surprise performance Wednesday night. The two sang a pair of duets for a crowd of a few hundred invited guests at a private event on the eve of the Country Music Association Awards.

"For me, I feel like, in another life, I might've been a country artist," Ne-Yo said in an interview after the performance.

And he's not joking. He's found lots to love about country music since first joining McGraw for a Nashville-style songwriting session a few years back.

Quoted

"She cooked fried chicken for me and it was fantastic."

Ne-Yo
Talking about Faith Hill cooking for him upon arrival to Music City

"Faith Hill actually made me fried chicken," Ne-Yo said. "She cooked fried chicken for me and it was fantastic. I knew I was coming out here to write, so I was expecting to go to, like, a studio and hear some skeletal track and then just go from there. I went to Tim and Faith's house. It was me, Tim and a guy with a guitar in the living room as the kids ran around, and it was the greatest writing experience I've ever had in my life."

The two sang McGraw's Only Human from his Emotional Traffic album. Then they wrapped up with Ne-Yo's She Is from his Nov. 6 release R.E.D.

A loose, upbeat McGraw threw the party to debut new material from his first Big Machine Records album Two Lanes of Freedom, out Feb. 5. He will perform new single One Of Those Nights on the CMA Awards and will join Hill in a tribute to Willie Nelson.

Ne-Yo can't make it to the show Thursday night. He's shooting a video for Forever Now. But he vowed to return to Nashville soon.

"We're definitely going to do it again," he said. "I met a lot of very important people in there. I met Tim's management and the Big Machine people, and just expect to see some more of this cross-pollination happening."

Winehouse. Charity says late singer's dresses stolen

Amy Winehouse's charity says two of the late singer's dresses — including her wedding dress — are missing and believed stolen from her former London home.

The Amy Winehouse Foundation said Thursday the dress Winehouse wore for her 2006 Miami wedding to Blake Fielder-Civil and a newsprint cocktail dress she wore during a British TV appearance are both missing. The presumed theft was discovered during an inventory.

The wedding dress was to have been auctioned off for the charity, established to help young people overcome addiction. The singer's father, Mitch Winehouse, told the Evening Standard it was "sickening that someone would steal something in the knowledge of its sentimental value."

Winehouse, the Grammy-winning Back to Black singer, died from alcohol poisoning in 2011, at the age of 27.

Quinn the extra ingredient to Holmes recipe

Elementary. Irish actor unfazed by last-minute casting decision for NYC police captain Tobias Gregson

IAN GORMLEY
scene@metronews.ca

There are only two characters that come to mind when you mention the work of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle: Holmes and Watson.

So perhaps the creators of Elementary, a new modernized take on the Sherlock Holmes character, can be excused for waiting until the last minute to cast actor Aidan Quinn as Captain Tobias Gregson, the New York City cop who hires the down-on-his-luck detective as a consultant.

Quinn, a hardworking actor who's appeared in a diverse range of films, from Legends of the Fall to Jonah Hex, was shooting on top of the Rockies when he got the call. "I was the last one cast," he says. "I had to literally get off a plane and go straight to a hotel at nine o'clock at night. I had a three hour fitting and I was being picked up at 5:30 a.m. to start shooting."

Luckily for Quinn, he'd had recent experience playing a cop in the Big Apple to draw on, having just played one for 13 episodes on the television series Prime Suspect. "I got to hang out with the chief of detectives, Lt. Jimmy West," he says. "I knew the world I was walking into."

Elementary transplants Holmes, played by Johnny Lee Miller, to modern day New York, framing him as a recovering substance abuser with intolerance for slow-witted people. Dr. John Watson is now a Joan, played by Lucy Liu, who plays Holmes' sponsor.

While most of the people around Holmes are the targets of his acerbic sense of humour, Quinn's Captain Gregson has a genuine affection for him. "I think he enjoys watching Holmes say nasty things to people," he says, noting that as a police captain, his character has to mind his tongue. "I think maybe, in a way, I'm living vicariously through Holmes."

Controversy

- Fan accusations. Prior to its premiere, Elementary was already in hot water with fans over the supposed similarities between it and the BBC series Sherlock that similarly threw Holmes into a modern day setting.
- Not buying it. Quinn has never seen Elementary's British counterpart. "I've heard that the show is terrific and that the show is completely different than ours." Quinn blames Internet haters for the controversy. "It's all just bloggers."

Fringe secrecy

As the countdown to the series finale of Fringe continues, even the episode synopses are cloaked in mystery. All producers will tease about Friday's new episode is that the team responds to devastating events, forcing one of its own to make a "significant and shocking move." Well, Canadian star Joshua Jackson has asserted that the sci-fi puzzler will eventually come to a highly satisfying conclusion, so we'll just have to trust him — right? (Citytv, Fox)

Go easy on Pilgrim

The hyper-kinetic rom-com Scott Pilgrim vs. The World met disappointing box-office returns back in 2010, so here's guessing that many people still aren't wise to the quick-witted film's unique charms. Shot and based in Toronto and starring Canuck Michael Cera, the film — airing Friday — follows a well-meaning slacker who meets his dream girl. (MuchMusic)

Pop-moustache polarity

There's good reason mustachio rhymes with braggadocio, because in this past century you needed guts to carry one off with aplomb. "Like two erect sentries, my moustache defends the entrance to my real self," Salvador Dali captioned an iconic portrait, where his waxed-stache tips vertically extend, overshooting his eyes. Below the nose, follicle gardens tend to make bristly and divisive style statements that leave little room for middle ground — you're either a biker or a bellhop, a hippie or a hipster, Lemmy Kilmister or Freddie Mercury.

Toons

Square—Ned Flanders

STYLE: THE MAGNUM

While Springfield's most irrepressibly jovial denizen may be as bland as a pint of Duff Light, his ample soup strainer, straight off the hirsute 1970s, is a colossal furry specimen. His stache embodies his sense of peace with his outsized manliness. Still, not everybody reads it right. "Judging from that moustache, you must be a member of the People's Republic of Berkley," Ted Nugent surmised.

Ned Flanders

Hothead—Yosemite Sam

STYLE: BIG BUSHY MESS

Sam's ungainly whiskers account for 20 per cent of his body mass and are so prodigious he could really conceal his two six-shooters in that furry menace. His ginger facial mane is an outward reflection of his redneck Napoleon complex and banjo-smashing short fuse. If you look at Sam the wrong way, you better start saying your prayers, varmint.

Political leaders

STYLE: ELEGANT COP STACHE

While this civil rights leader is celebrated for his vision of racial equality, MLK's legacy saw some more trivial yet still world changing consequences come to be, like his unintended dream of follicular freedom. While moustache discrimination may still exist in some corners, most office places have removed restrictions. Disney theme parks lifted their employee mo ban in 2000, and just this past year relaxed rules on beards and goatees.

Presidential hopeful—Thomas E. Dewey

STYLE: CLARK GABLE STACHE

Nicknamed "The Moustache," Dewey ran against Roosevelt in the 1944 American presidential election. Alice Roosevelt Longworth publicly dissed Dewey's carefully cultivated and decidedly dapper lip-warmer, which complimented his put-together look, calling him "the little man on the wedding cake." Many believe the dig buried his campaign and his subsequent one. He would lose again to Truman in 1948 by quite a few whiskers.

Rockers

Theatrical Rock—Freddie Mercury

STYLE: CHEEKY CHEVRON

The late Queen lead singer's mo was as magnificent as his voice. His glamorous crumb-catcher looked particularly fetching when accessorized with a racerback tank top, fingerless leather biker gloves, or a spandex jumpsuit. Mercury's Moustache could probably sing We Are the Champions while doing the fandango.

Lemmy Kilmister

Heavy Metal—Lemmy Kilmister

STYLE: THE LEMMY

Catch a glimpse of Motörhead frontman's muttonchops and feral stache in a dark alley and you might just scream louder than his band's speed metal.

Pioneering rock God or not, Lemmy's mug may be more famous than his music, landing him in potato chip and Kit-Kat commercials in the U.K., a bit part in Airheads, and a cameo in the adult film John Wayne Bobbit Uncut.

Big four sports

NFL Tough Guy—Jack Lambert

STYLE: SHAGGY WALRUS

You didn't want to see this hard-hitting linebacker staring you down across the line of scrimmage in the 1970s. Missing his front four top teeth, Lambert's snarling mug, highlighted by his drooping thicket of walrus-esque underbrush, was emblematic of Pittsburgh's stingy defense dubbed the Steel Curtain.

Jack Lambert

MLB Nice Guy—Rollie Fingers Style

STYLE: HAUTE HANDLEBAR

While his sharp slider and impressive save tally put the A's pitcher in the Hall, most baseball fans' fondest memory of this rock solid reliever is of his exquisitely curled handlebar.

The leader of the Athletics' cookie duster cohort, Fingers first grew his stache in order to receive a $300 bonus from eccentric owner Charles O. Finley, who also dreamed up Moustache Day at the ballpark.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore. ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Kutcher, Moore remain separated but not divorced

It's been a year since Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore separated, but apparently they've made no moves toward actually getting a divorce, according to TMZ.

While several reports have suggested squabbling over how to divide assets between the stars, the website reports that in fact there have been no discussions on the topic, argumentative or otherwise.

Kutcher and Moore were married for six years before separating.

Bell finally ties the knot with Wood

It looks like those wedding rings Evan Rachel Wood and Jamie Bell were spotted wearing were for real, as the pair has tied the knot, a rep for Wood tells Us Weekly. The small ceremony took place in California on Tuesday, with Wood wearing a gown by Carolina Herrera.

"I am so happy for Evan. She is a timeless beauty and her gown in Chantilly lace captures this perfectly," Herrera says.

The Word

Ben Affleck forced to pass up prime gigs

Ben Affleck has learned the hard way that finding a balance between working and home life means turning down some interesting gigs — like directing episodes of Homeland, the critically acclaimed spy drama.

While giving a speech at the Artios Awards in L.A. recently, Affleck admitted wife Jennifer Garner kept him from taking the job.

"I liked the show. I signed on. The guys were ready. I don't want to blame her, but my wife and I gave an agreement where when she works, I don't work and when I work, she doesn't work," he explains.

"She said, 'I have this movie, it's 10 weeks, it's in Atlanta.' I said, 'OK, forget it. I'm sure nothing will happen with it anyway.'"

The series went on to win several Emmy Awards, including best drama series.

Twilight co-star relates to Stewart's infidelity

Robert Pattinson seems to have forgiven Kristen Stewart for her infidelity scandal over the summer — and so have some of her other Twilight co-stars.

"Honestly, I used to cheat so much it would be very hypocritical of me to pass judgment on Kristen," says Charlie Bewley, who plays Vulturi vampire Demetri in the last installment of the successful franchise. "I know what it's like to have an inflated libido. Probably why I'm not in a relationship right now."

As you read this, I'm on the other side of the globe, enjoying some Down Under hospitality in Southern Australia.

The Aussies took the wine world by storm back in the late 1980s, catching the likes of France, Italy and Germany totally off guard. Giving grape variety names top billing on their labels, the wine wizards of Oz became industry darlings almost overnight.

Things have changed a lot since then. For awhile, it seemed like every vineyard in the country was trying to make the same wine.

Thankfully, today's Australia is, for the most part, a different place.

Smaller, family-owned wineries have taken up residence next to industry giants like Wolf Blass and Yellow Tail at your local liquor store — offering different personalities to offset the now diminishing glut of "taste the same" brands.

One new face of Australia I just visited was Shingleback, in the McLaren Vale not far from South Australia's capital, Adelaide. The Shingleback 2011 Red Knot Cabernet Sauvignon is a ripe mouthful of wine with lots of up-front blackberry fruit and complexity that reminds me of what the best Aussies of the '80s were producing. Try it with a plate of something big and beefy. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Serious sandwich lovers, bite into this

National Sandwich Day is on Saturday. Celebrate the second annual event with an Italian grilled chicken sandwich with pesto-cheese sauce

ROSE REISMAN

rosereisman.com

Whether you eat it on a croissant, between two slices of whole wheat bread with the crust cut off or on gluten-free buns, this is the weekend to make yourself a delicious sandwich.

According to Technomic Inc.'s 2010 Canadian Sandwich Consumer Trend Report, 94 per cent of Canadians said they eat at least one sandwich each week.

This week, make it this delicious Italian grilled chicken sandwich with pesto-cheese sauce.

I save calories in this sandwich by removing the interior from the loaf of bread and leaving the crust intact. That brings the calorie count to 345 per one sandwich.

The filling of chicken with vegetables, pesto-cheese sauce and shredded lettuce makes this a unique and delicious meal.

This recipe serves six. RYAN SZULC, FROM ROSE REISMAN'S FAMILY FAVORITES (WHITECAP BOOKS)

Ingredients

Start to finish: 25 minutes

- 2 tbsp pesto
- 2 tbsp light mayonnaise
- 1/3 cup light ricotta (5%)
- 3 tbsp light cream cheese, softened
- 1/3 cup crumbled goat cheese (about 1 1/2 oz)
- 1 whole Italian round loaf of bread (about 1 1/4 lb; about 12 inches across)
- 8 oz skinless boneless chicken breasts (about 2 breasts), pounded flat
- 1 roasted red pepper, thinly sliced
- 2 cups shredded romaine lettuce
- 2 medium plum tomatoes, sliced and seeded
- 1/3 cup diced red onion
- 1/3 cup chopped black olives
- pinch of salt and pepper

1. To make the pesto-cheese sauce, combine the pesto, mayonnaise, ricotta, cream cheese and goat cheese in a food processor and purée until smooth.

2. Cut the loaf of bread in half horizontally and pull out as much of the bread as possible, leaving only the crust.

3. In a non-stick grill pan or skillet, lightly coated with cooking spray, cook the chicken breast just until no longer pink, about 5 minutes. Cool, then slice thinly.

4. Spread the pesto-cheese sauce over both the bottom and the top half of the loaf. Layer the bottom half with the chicken, roasted red pepper strips, lettuce, tomatoes, onions, olives, salt and pepper. Top with the top half of the loaf and cut into 6 sandwiches.

DeRozan deal a 'wise investment': Raps GM

NBA. Toronto wraps up fourth-year swingman before he can become a restricted free agent

With numbers crunched, the landscape surveyed and the future in mind, it became an easy decision for the Toronto Raptors to sign fourth-year swingman DeMar DeRozan to a lucrative four-year contract extension.

President and general manager Bryan Colangelo, fully aware that the six-foot-seven DeRozan has yet to realize what some experts see as his full potential, knows he's paying now for what he hopes happens down the line.

"Upside is a commodity in this business and we definitely think this was a wise investment," Colangelo said Thursday, a day after bestowing a four-year deal worth a guaranteed $38 million US on DeRozan.

Small group

DeMar DeRozan was one of only seven players from the first round of the 2009 NBA draft to sign an extension with their teams before becoming restricted free agents.

- Blake Griffin of the Los Angeles Clippers, James Harden of the Houston Rockets, Ty Lawson of the Denver Nuggets, Chicago's Taj Gibson, Golden State's Stephen Curry and Jrue Holiday of the Philadelphia 76ers were the others.

DeRozan, 23, would have become a restricted free agent next summer had the Raptors not locked him up before a midnight, Oct. 31 deadline. Colangelo said the unknown of the future — and wanting to have a young player locked up on what he sees as a manageable contract — became paramount as the deadline approached.

"This is mostly about asset retention and yes, it does lock in an asset moving forward," said the general manager.

Whether DeRozan develops more as player remains to be seen. In his three NBA seasons, he's proven he can score but his shooting range remains a question mark and his defence needs marked improvement.

But, given how things around them are unfolding, and mindful that finding young players who want to come to Toronto has been difficult, getting DeRozan under contract does send a message.

It's now up to the player to continue to improve his game.

"We've grown with him, he's grown with us. We see him as a piece that not only do we want him, he wants to be here. That's important to me, it's important to our organization and I think it's an important message to send that we've got a nice fit, that we want to retain our players that work hard and show signs of promise," said Colangelo.

"The downside of waiting would have been that someone would have come in... roughly 10 teams that will have significant cap space and would have been potential suitors for a dynamic wing player like DeMar DeRozan."

Raonic's strong season ends with a loss in Paris

Milos Raonic closed out his 2012 tennis season Thursday by dropping a 6-3, 7-6 (1) decision to American Sam Querrey at the Paris Masters.

The hard-serving No. 14 seed from Thornhill, Ont., had 10 aces on the day but the American countered with an even dozen, wrapping up the match in 71 minutes.

Querrey was brimming with confidence after defeating top-ranked Novak Djokovic a day earlier. The loss also ended Raonic's faint bid to reach next week's eight-man World Tour Finals season wrap-up in London.

"I'm sick at the moment. I don't have fever but I'm struggling with sinuses," he said.

Raonic has now lost twice this season to Querrey, who eliminated him from Wimbledon in the second round.

The Canadian won titles in Chennai and San Jose this season and finished the campaign with a 45-20 record. He also reached finals in Memphis and last month in Tokyo. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bloomberg responded to criticism of his decision to hold the race at a news briefing Thursday. He noted that electricity is expected to be back on in downtown Manhattan by Sunday, freeing up an "enormous number of police."

Bloomberg said "this city is a city where we have to go on."

Benching Vick was never an option: Coach

NFL. Philadelphia bench boss Andy Reid dispels rumours surrounding his struggling QB

Michael Vick remains the Philadelphia Eagles quarterback, for now ... and for the future.

Coach Andy Reid said Thursday he never considered benching Vick, he just wanted to step back and evaluate the beleaguered veteran.

Reid threw his full support behind Vick after practice and was ready to move forward with him as the starter for Monday's game at New Orleans (2-5). Rookie Nick Foles, a pre-season star, remains the backup.

"Michael was the quarterback, is the quarterback and will continue to be the quarterback for the Philadelphia Eagles," Reid said.

Eagles quarterback Michael Vick

GETTY IMAGES

Vick, a four-time Pro Bowl player, has struggled this season and Philadelphia (3-4) has lost three straight games.

Reid didn't endorse Vick after Sunday's 30-17 loss to Atlanta, only that he would evaluate all his starters. Vick then said he would support whatever decision Reid makes.

After Thursday's practice, Reid said he thought Vick played one of his best games of the season against the Falcons. Vick was a pedestrian 21 of 35 for 191 yards and a touchdown. Vick had a rare turnover-free performance, though, after throwing eight interceptions and losing five fumbles in the first six games.

Vick said "it wasn't news" that he remained the starter because Reid never told him his job was in jeopardy. And he said he believed he's still one of the best players in the NFL, even if the numbers and record prove otherwise.

Injury update

Bills' O-line gets good, bad news

It's two steps forward and potentially one step back when it comes to the health of the Buffalo Bills' starting offensive line coming out of the bye.

The good news is that starting left tackle Cordy Glenn and starting right guard Kraig Urbik are expected to return on Sunday, when Buffalo (3-4) travels to play the AFC-leading Houston Texans (6-1). Both missed three games with sprained right ankles.

On the downside, Erik Pears' status is uncertain after the starting right tackle missed practice Thursday.

Coach Chan Gailey said Pears was visiting a specialist to have a nagging hip-groin injury examined.

NHLPA calling for cap on escrow

NHLPA special assistant Mathieu Schneider skates up ice with the Phoenix Coyotes during his final NHL season in March 2010. JOEL AUERBACH/GETTY IMAGES FILE

Lockout. League says 'salary rollbacks' via escrow haven't been brought up by union in CBA negotiations

The path to NHL labour peace — and a chance to save the season — is an idea that only number crunchers could love: A cap on escrow.

"If they're willing to cap escrow, there's something to talk about," Mathieu Schneider — Donald Fehr's special assistant at the NHLPA — told the Torstar News Service on Thursday.

"That would definitely be a step toward our direction, but that hasn't been discussed."

The two sides have no plans for face-to-face negotiations.

"The comment (from Schneider) is news to me, but the concept isn't," said NHL deputy commissioner Bill Daly.

"The subject has never been raised across the table to us, either in the form of a proposal or otherwise."

The idea of a cap on escrow has been an under-reported part of these negotiations, largely because both math and the definition of escrow are involved.

Schneider's acknowledgment that players might continue to accept escrow — perhaps as the best way to make sure current contracts are fully honoured — provides a road map as to how the NHL and NHLPA might find the route between their hard-line positions.

"Escrow is a necessary evil under the salary-cap system," said Schneider. "But whether players' (salaries) are rolled back through the face value of the contracts, or through escrow, a rollback is a rollback."

Locked-out NHLers don't want any rollbacks. But rollbacks via escrow give them a chance to get their money back. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Splitting dollars

Escrow is a percentage of a player's contract that is put aside every year.

- If the league hits revenue targets, the money is repaid. If not, the teams are due a share of the escrow.
- If the league exceeds revenue targets, the players get a share of the extra revenue.
- NHLers, through the last seven years of their CBA, lost on average about 3.5 per cent of their salaries through escrow.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Travel plans and social events may be disrupted today but that may not be a bad thing. You seem to be torn in which direction you should be moving, but do you really have to move anywhere?

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Common sense could fly out the window under the influence of the moon's eclipse of Jupiter and you could easily find yourself out of pocket by the end of the day. Think before you act — and don't be so wasteful.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Others may say you are being too cautious and maybe you are but if your instincts tell you to think more and act less, you must listen. Jupiter may be in your sign but you don't have to take risks.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Try not to let your anxieties get the better of you. You are sure to be worried about something today but that does not mean you cannot control your fears. Focus on the positives and pretend the negatives don't exist.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Today's cosmic events will get your pulse racing but you must not take foolish risks, especially where friendships are concerned. Think before you act and, if you do make a mistake, correct it right away.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Keep things simple and don't overreact. That applies to all areas of your life because if things get out of hand in one place they will get out of hand all over. Tread especially carefully when dealing with your employer.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Today's moon-Jupiter link will encourage you to open your mouth when you should probably keep it closed. You are entitled to your opinions, of course, but it would help tremendously if they were backed up by facts.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You may find it hard to keep what you know to yourself today. You are bursting to let everyone know, which is not like you at all. Your rivals could easily find ways to profit from what you tell them.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Your emotions seem to be all over the place at the moment, but that's better than holding it all in and pretending you have no feelings at all. Let partners and loved ones know why you are so wound up.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Take life as it comes over the next 24 hours and don't take anything or anyone (including yourself) too seriously. Look at it this way: Ten years from now who is going to know or care?

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Some kind of success or breakthrough is likely today or over the weekend, most likely on the work front. What have you done to deserve so much fortune? Who knows? Who cares! Just enjoy it while you can.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Don't allow yourself to feel guilty about what happens to other people. You are not responsible for their woes and have every right to be happy even though some may be suffering. Smile — and the world will smile with you.
